Consulting:

Research and consulting focused on economic development, education, health, tourism, ICT for development, and on the digital venue as a space for social processes and organizational structures. I restricted such work to a scale where I could still teach and blend projects with action oriented and/or participatory research – very much in a multistakeholder mode.

- Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA, Ottawa)
- International Development Research Centre (IDRC, Ottawa)
- UN Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD, Geneva)
- UN Development Program (UNDP, New York)
- World Bank (Washington D. C.)
- Swedish International Development Agency (sida, Stockholm)
- Pan American Health Organization (PAHO,

Guest Lectures and Presentations:

I have lectured and consulted (frequently pro bono) extensively around the globe – mainly on the role of ICT on social processes and organizational structures, and on topics ranging from eGovernance, eHealth, ICT4education, and -from my development economist background- often with a broader socio-economic focus in ICT4Dev
