

RPM Comment Review Subgroups A & B - Remit Parameters

The remit of SGs A&B is to review the public comments and to identify;

- a) if any Public Comments provided any new and material perspectives which the WG had not considered in making its initial WG Recommendation; have raised any new facts that materially strengthen or diminish the assumptions on which the recommendation was based; suggest a solution that has not already been considered by the full Working Group; or
- b) if any WG Recommendations received widespread and substantial opposition not already considered by the WG in making its initial Recommendations.

If the SG finds that (a) and/or (b) exists, then the SG may determine that it should refer the subject Recommendation to the full WG for possible reconsideration (whether resulting in more substantial edits, or mere fine-tuning) of its initial Recommendation. While the SG may provide ideas for WG consideration, any final revision of the initial Recommendation language is subject to consideration and agreement of the full WG.

In the absence of either (a) and/or (b), the SG will reflect this to the WG on the assumption that the particular Recommendation be maintained “as is”. Where either (a) or (b) exists, then the SG may decide to refer the new perspective or revised recommendation to the WG as a whole for deliberation.
